SYNOPSIS

How do you typically “church-shop?” Are you mostly interested in finding a church that accommodates your needs and gives you a comfortable experience? Or are you looking for a church that equips you to serve and deploys your gifts?

Too often we seek a church that will play our type of music, cater to our schedule, and not ask too much of us. But just as Christ died for the Church, we are reminded to give no more than Jesus did to the Church - and He gave his life.

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

- What is one thing that you typically catch yourself wrongly expecting from your church?
- How are you currently building up your local body of believers?
- How should Christ’s sacrifice change our habits when it comes to “church-shopping?”
- Do you feel inconvenienced at times by your church?
